

The 1955 Auburn Tigers

The Auburn Tigers played in their 3rd consecutive Gator Bowl at the end of the 1955 season. Ranked #9 in the Associated Press poll, the Tigers had challenged for a Sugar Bowl bid until the very last week of the 55 season. Auburn's season included a trouncing of its in-state rival, the University of Alabama. My e-book looks at the players and coaches on the Auburn team. The year was not without adversity. $500 paid to two Alabama City high school prospects brought Auburn an indefinite ban from playing in bowl games, beginning in early 1956. My Ebook has been researched using ancestry records and also newspaper accounts from 1955. Readers can form their own conclusions about the fairness/unfairness of the penalties that were assessed to this rising football power from Alabama.
