

Bowlbrawl

Cultural Writing. Biography. Humor. Sports. BOWL BRAWL is the hard-to-believe but apparently mostly true tale of Robert Towell's rise in the world of late 1990s contact hypermasculine bowling, culminating in the only bowling trial in the history of Ontario, Canada. With his company (World Championship Bowling) and the edgy and life-risking storylines, pay-per-views, psychotic athletes and the continuous love of his wife Nikola, Robert Towell attempted to revolutionize professional bowling and change the game forever. Laden with images, BOWL BRAWL successfully suspends our disbelief. Much of it is envisioned through backstage wrestling cinematography and insightful interviews that provide rapid character development. The format is a playground for Moore's linguistic eccentricities--Globe and Mail.
