

Tell The Devil To Go To Hell: You can...I did...and all happiness broke loose!

Have you ever been afraid of the devil? Or of going to hell? I was! I lived in fear of dying--afraid of being judged for my mistakes...and I had no idea that my fear of death was disguised as worry and anxiety. Fears of making wrong choices--and of being sent to hell for unforgivable errors--were secretly driving my addictions and codependency. This was not the life I wanted! But...how could I be happy...or love a God who could send me to hell for eternity? These insecurities drove my life choices until I explored my deepest beliefs. During my search, I discovered that I was afraid of change--and of changing. I was also afraid of new and wonderful ideas about peace, heaven...and the concept of a loving God. Was I even worthy of love? By asking and answering tough questions in writing, my exploration became more than a memoir; my journal evolved into a guide--a workbook for healing negative beliefs about punishment and condemnation, which can arise from harsh and abusive religious teachings. This book can be used for personal growth, for recognizing and reducing unwanted fear and anxiety, and for strengthening love and compassion. I share the big questions, so that you, too, can find answers--your own answers--that can help you banish fears of the devil and hell...and find peace of mind, love, and happiness. I believe everyone deserves to enjoy a happy life...but do you? Hmmm?
