Sure, it doesnt hurt that your parents are Will Smith and Jada Pinkett Smith. While their parents may have cracked the door ever so slightly, the young duo is busting it down with talent and complete respect from their fans. From acting to singing, the two are just like their parents, both willing to take risks in the industry to set them apart. On and off the big screen, the siblings are unique and boastful in whom they are as individuals which is probably what makes them so likable. Willow, with her stand-alone style and take-charge demeanor, embodies the power that is not seen a lot in todays youth. She has a key eye for fashion and loves to flaunt her stuff on the runway, in a tasteful and strong way that young girls around the world look up to. Jaden is becoming the equally strong young man that his parents are so proud of. He is willing to take risks on the set and showcase his skills to his adoring fans. The two are a force to be reckoned with, as everything they touch seems to turn to gold. Find out more about these two rising stas in this biography.
