

The Last Varangian

980 AD: A doomed castle is surrounded by enemy soldiers. The king offers a mountain of silver to any mercenary army who would help defend against imminent attack. But who would agree to such a suicide mission? Why, the Varangians, of course. The Varangians are men of the pledge - elite Norse warriors who sell their services for silver. No one can match their skill in battle, and when they give their word, they will fight to their dying breath. Yet all their martial prowess cannot protect them from the deceit of treacherous kings. As the last of the Varangians fight to defend the castle, one among their number attempts to cut through the web of lies that surrounds them.
